WORTHLESS READING.

"Worthless reading makes worthless people." But that in big letters and hang it up in your sitting-room, where you can see it every day, and where the young people can see it. Maybe it will call their attention to the books they are reading, which are uplifting or degrading, says the Ohio State Journal. They are one or the other. Parents don't seem to realize this. Nine out of ten of them do not seem to understand the significance of a book. An education amounts to nothing if a boy or girl turns it into shallow reading. Their minds are filled with trash and their thinking is weak, when they read the kind of books that are mostly read these days. It is a sad mistake to allow this matter to go to random, and to allow the youth's taste for reading to grow rank and wild. The highest triumph of an education is the desire and habit to read good books. It makes no difference how well a boy gets along in his mathematics or language, if he has no taste for good reading it is all waste. Parents will take great interest in the marks their child gets at school, but they are hopelessly careless as to what those marks mean for him in his after life. It is time they were giving attention to this subject.

For at least four hundred years journalism has been a profession without needful recognition, in that a course of study was required to enter its portals. The late Joseph Pulitzer felt that it should be raised to the proper rank, and he founded and endowed a college, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. To the knowledge of this new institution is called Dr. Talbot Williams of this city, one of the deans of American journalism, and two whose experience, travel, accomplishments and scholarship make the selection of a new director other than newspaper men. To fit into the peculiar niche which makes journalism so important is given to few, but it is certain that no young man ever entering journalism and left it without carrying away valuable lessons.

The change has never flourished in England, but is a powerful institution in France, where a "chef de cuisine" enjoys a recognized status and makes a comfortable income. It is a mistake to suppose that the only duty of a chef is to cook. These "chefs de cuisine" attend the lighter forms of drama and laugh so heartily and naturally that their neighbors join in, and leave the house, convinced that the play must be a funny one. Then there are the "plumagers" who are paid to shake with soda at the right moment during melodramas. These are the real dramatic critics.

WISCONSIN WOMAN TELLS OF TRAGEDY

EXPERIENCE OF MRS. MINAHAN, WHOSE HUSBAND WENT TO BOTTOM WITH TITANIC.

AMONG LAST LEAVING SHIP

Mrs. Minahan was in Life Boat With J. Bruce Ismay, Steamship Magnate, and Grand Old Man of Seafaring—Did Not See Capt. Smith.

Chicago, April 25.—Learning from the arm of her brother, Dr. J. R. Minahan of Green Bay, Mrs. Minahan told the story of the last four days, Mrs. E. Minahan of Fond du Lac, Wis., and Miss Daisy Minahan of Green Bay, Wis., who were on the platform of the Twentieth Century Limited at the LaSalle street station, at 9:15 o'clock yesterday morning, the first survivors of the Titanic disaster to reach this city.

TRAGEDY END OF TRIP.

Mrs. Minahan, physically worn out, nervously a wreck, burst into hysterical sobs. It was at the same station four months ago that she and her husband, perhaps Fond du Lac's best known physician and surgeon, had boarded the Twentieth Century Limited, with Miss Minahan, bound for New York, where they had planned a delightful Mediterranean voyage. They were a happy party then. But yesterday, as she left the train, Mrs. Minahan realized that also was a widow, her husband had perished with the Titanic, the most terrible accident in the annals of maritime history.

Mrs. Minahan tried vainly to recall the terrible story. Before each word there was the barrier of a throat choked with sobs, and it was impossible to gain a coherent idea of what she and her sister had endured during the long, though long story, of the tragedy, which she left on a Northwestern train for the home of her brother in Green Bay.

MRS. MINAHAN'S STORY.

Partly through Dr. J. P. Minahan, Mrs. Minahan told the story, weeping frequently, about as follows:

"Dr. Minahan, his sister and myself had returned early Sunday night on account of the cold temperature, which was even felt in the cabin. In the salon of the first cabin a party was in progress, and before retiring we had joined them in the salon for a while. Cards were played by some, others were chatting and others were reading the musical entertainment. It was about 11:30 when I got into bed, and I knew I had been sleeping soundly for two hours or more when both the doctor and myself were awakened by frantic cries outside our door. My husband peered into the corridor and saw Mrs. John Jacob Astor running frantically and shrieking: 'The boat's sinking! The boat's sinking! Help! Help! Help!'

"I felt fully awakened from our sleep we felt the huge ship rolling upon its portside. My husband threw several blankets about me, hurried into some clothes himself and ran to the adjoining stateroom, where Daisy was sleeping. After throwing a blanket about her, he took me to the main deck, where we found things in confusion. Life boats were being lifted down into the sea and two were already being put off with frightened and hysterical women in them.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN FIRST.

"The first thing that I heard was this cry: 'Not one man must leave the boat until all of the children and women are cared for.' It was Mr. Astor shouting, and the cry was repeated by a number of brave men at his side. Among them I saw Benjamin Thurgood, Dr. H. Thayer, C. M. Hayes and John Straus, and at his side his wife.

"There was a heart-rending wail from the steerage, as the words that the ship is sinking went up, and women clinging to their babies and children were freed.

HEARD SHOTS FIRED.

"Then I heard members of the ship's crew crying out orders, which no one seemed to hear or heed. I can't remember any one vivid picture, it was all so awful. Both men and women were praying and I remember someone shouted that the wireless operator had called for help and that a steamer was coming to our aid. But that did not quiet many, for the huge ship was sinking faster and faster.

"I was too dumbfounded to move, and I think Daisy must have been, also. My husband was adding in letting down a life boat and told us to be brave and all would be well. As every lifeboat was let down into the sea with women and children, attempts were made by panic-stricken men to jump into it, and then I heard shots. The officers were firing at them.

ASTOR A REAL LEADER.

"All the time I did not see Capt. Smith, who had been in the party in the salon, until the time of the collision with the iceberg, nor did I see him until he was in the water. Mr. Astor seemed to be the man in charge of all and so cool and manly.

Will Manage Two Plant.

Madison.—Thomas P. Conner, Peoria, Ill., has been appointed to the job of managing the binder twine plant at the Waupun prison, which will be put into operation next summer.

Agod Woman Burned.

Eau Claire.—Mrs. Helona Wahl, aged 73, was seriously burned when her dress caught fire while she was burning some leaves in front of her home in this city.

Organize New Church.

Neenah.—A new church is being organized here by English Lutherans. A sufficient number of English people who have belonged to the German or Scandinavian Lutheran churches have united in the project.

Wautoma Fears Epidemic.

Wautoma.—Following the death of a daughter of Wm. Courts of scarlet fever and the discovery of another case in the city, the public schools of this city were ordered closed.

was he that he seemed to give all the rest of us more courage.

"I saw Mrs. Isidor Straus and her husband standing together on the deck. The officers and Mr. Straus asked her to enter the davit, but she would not leave her husband. And she didn't.

CARRIED INTO LIFEBOAT.

"Two boats were broken in parts while being dropped down, and persons in them were tossed into the water.

"The last boat was being lowered. There were over a hundred women. It seemed to me, waiting to get into it. Fifty persons had already filled it when my husband half carried me and his sister to the side of the half-sunken vessel and lifted us into it. Col. Astor assisted him.

THEN ISMAY CLIMBED IN.

"He brave," were the only two words my husband spoke as he climbed in for the last time. Then something that turned my blood cold happened. The life boat was held a moment. J. Bruce Ismay was clambering into it, and he was being assisted by a couple of members of the crew. There was a dreadful expression on his face as he took a place in the already overcrowded boat.

"There were two women in our boat and the third one was named by a woman. Not a word was spoken by anyone. It was in dumb horror that those women looked back toward their husbands and loved ones on board the stricken vessel.

ALL OVER IN A MOMENT.

"I heard the water splash as the one were dipped into the water, which was as smooth and untroubled as a crystal lake. With the exception of the boat, which was playing 'Never My God to Thee,' there was a terrible silence for a few minutes, and then with a gasp of us was submerged. Our eyes to get a last look at those men to us, there was a crash. The monster boat had split in two. And then followed a terrible explosion.

"In another moment it was all over. The ship had gone down with those hundreds of loved ones on it, and we knew, though we did not see it, that we would never see any of them alive again.

"Next on our crowded boat account to be alive. It was all so terrible, unexpected, that the feelings conquered the tongue. We did not think of our own fate. The boat was so overcrowded that waves would mean our deaths. And the air was so cold that we were benumbed.

SAW HUNDREDS OF BODIES.

"All that I could see on the surface of the water after the sinking of the Titanic was hundreds of human bodies.

"During that night was there a calm sea. It was that of a life boat. 'Mamma,' he piped childishly, 'why did you not get out of that big boat for, cuz this ain't no near so nice?'

"Until 7 o'clock the next morning the boat drifted, when the Carpathia came in sight. And when the rescue ship left a holder down its side and left their own state rooms and quarters, as if they were not there, and they could ascend without the aid of ropes.

Mrs. Minahan said Mrs. Astor's condition was especially critical at that time.

GOOD WORDS FOR CARPATHIA.

"Then, according to Mrs. Minahan, the Carpathia picked up boat after boat of survivors until all the boats that had been sent afloat had been accounted for. In some of those boats a number who had escaped going down with the vessel had succeeded during the night, and the condition of some women was pitiful. In some way her foot had come into contact with the icy water and worn frozen. She afterward died on the Carpathia.

Mrs. Minahan says the treatment given the rescued from the Titanic was excellent. "The Carpathia's crew, and especially its captain, gave us every possible consideration, and left their own state rooms and quarters, as if they were not there, and they could ascend without the aid of ropes. During the rescue work, Mrs. Minahan said positively that she did not see any of the men who had been on the Titanic, and that the Maj. Archie Butt was not to be seen again in this world.

ISMAY ACTED LIKE COWARD.

In telling of the escape of J. Bruce Ismay, one of the Titanic's owners, Mrs. Minahan said: "J. Bruce Ismay acted like a coward. I was in the last life boat lowered, and it already contained fifty-two persons, several over the number that can be safely carried, when Ismay jumped into the boat with his assistance of several members of the crew, while I saw at least a score of women hanging wild-eyed on the deck."

DIPWITS WITH EARLY REPORTS.

Information given by Mrs. Minahan on certain points that have not yet been cleared up conflict with the already varying reports of the many phases of the disaster.

While nearly every newspaper report has said that Capt. Smith was on deck and giving orders to the crew in the rescue work, Mrs. Minahan said positively that she did not see him, and that the Maj. Archie Butt was not to be seen again in this world.

Other statements Mrs. Minahan made, with which earlier reports differ, are:

The lights on the ship did not go out until it sank.

"That there was no noticeable discipline manifested amid the confusion, the only ones seeming to be directing the work of escape being Col. John Jacob Astor, Benjamin Guggenheim, Henry D. Harris and a number of other well known men aboard."

helm, Henry D. Harris and a number of other well known men aboard."

COMMENDS CAPT. ROSTRON.

"That Capt. Rostron of the Carpathia did not refuse to send wireless information to the press, but that he refused to send this information before all of the survivors had had an opportunity of using the wireless to notify relatives of their safety and of other vitally important facts."

"That signals were given by the man on the look-out to reverse the engines, as the ship was in imminent danger, but that there was no response."

SIFT BY DR. J. R. MINAHAN.

Dr. J. R. Minahan left Green Bay for New York at the first report of the disaster, and met his sister and sister-in-law as they left the Carpathia. "I rushed them to the Hotel Astor," he said, "they being the first survivors to reach a New York hotel. Everything was done there for them that was possible."

Mrs. Minahan will accompany my sister and myself to our home in Green Bay, where she will remain for a couple of months or until she is fully recuperated."

Mrs. Minahan and her sister-in-law sustained many bruises and a number of minor injuries in escaping from the doomed ship and in being rescued by the Carpathia.

Had it not been for the British coast strike, Dr. W. R. Minahan would have been today and his wife and sister would never have been obliged to endure the dreadful experience. The Minahans had planned to sail from Green Bay, from which port they boarded the Titanic, on another steamer. Owing to the coal strike, the schedule of boats was changed, leaving the Titanic the only one convenient for the Wisconsin people to sail on.

Singular, also, is the fact that before leaving Fond du Lac Dr. Minahan increased the amount of his annual insurance $50,000.

"On going on a long trip," he remarked to the insurance agent, "and something may happen. I feel that I ought to take this extra added insurance out."

JURIES TO FIX VALUATIONS

Compromise Effected on New Water Power Bill Provisions—Power of Repudiation in Legislature.

Madison.—A compromise has been effected between the legislative committee on water powers and the representatives of the state interests and the bill for the control of state projects finally prepared for introduction at the special session of the legislature to convene on April 30.

By the amended draft of the proposed bill, the value of any water power in the state, should its purchase be desired by a municipality, will be determined by a jury and condemnation proceedings in court. The question, which was one of the principal points in difference, was in the original bill to be determined by the original draft.

By the original draft, the repeal of independent permits for the construction of water powers was also voted by the state railroad commission. Under the compromise, the power of repeal is vested in the state legislature, to be exercised on the recommendation of the commission.

Suspect Cattle Frauds.

Madison.—Frauds in the appraisal of animals condemned for tuberculosis are indicated from discoveries made by State Veterinarian Dr. O. H. Henshaw. "That an appraisal of some condemned animals is grossly abused is my opinion," said Dr. Henshaw today. "Cattle condemned at the slaughter plants for emaciation even showing no lesions, have been appraised at from $30 to $50, which certainly is a holdup, and no such claims will receive my approval."

KILL FRENCH OFFICERS AND CITIZENS IN MOROCCAN CITY OF FEZ.

Massacre One Hundred Jews—Murder Telegraph Operators While on Duty—Paris Hears Distressing News—False Rumor Stirs Trouble.

Fez, April 24.—Friday at midday the revolt of the populace and the Moorish soldiery began, after a delegation of native troops had obtained admission to the palace and compelling the sultan of the new military regulations in connection with the French protectorate.

As the military delegation came out from the palace the soldiers composing it seized and killed a French captain. This was the signal for general pillage and massacre throughout the city. The native soldiers, pushed on by the French legionaries, rushed through the streets of the city slaying all the French they could find and looting the population to violence by the false cry of "the sultan is a prisoner of the French and must be liberated."

The French telegraphers were attacked by a howling crowd and made a heroic stand, defending their office for four hours, in the meantime sending messages to headquarters at Tangier. Finally the office was broken into, the telegraphers killed, and their bodies mutilated and buried.

The hands of all the Europeans slain by the native troops were paraded through the streets on pikes. The French legation sent out relief squads of troops and brought in many foreigners, and afterwards the French artillery opened fire on the rebels, who were grouped in the northern quarter.

Paris, April 24.—After four days of anxiety here due to lack of news from Fez, where the populace and Moorish soldiers maimed some days ago and killed many, a relief came in the form of a cablegram from the trouble reached here Tuesday.

It is known 15 French officers and 40 soldiers were killed in the fighting, while 13 civilians, all of them French citizens, were massacred in their homes or in the streets. Besides these four French officers and 70 soldiers were wounded and 100 French citizens were wounded and maimed.

MEXICANS ASSASSINATE AND TORTURE MEN AND WOMEN FROM UNITED STATES.

AWFUL STORIES BY STEAMER

Refugees From Vera Cruz Arriving at Galveston Say They Were Forced to Leave Lands, Homes, Furniture, and All Else.

Galveston, Tex., April 25.—The steamer Texas arrived here Tuesday from Vera Cruz with forty-seven passengers, all but one citizens of the United States. They told of torture and assassination of Americans in Mexico. All the refugees had left their lands and homes in a flight for life.

If it is, one of the refugees, told of the murder of an American citizen named Wall.

"Mr. Wall was a neighbor to me," said Mr. Ish. "He had sold several head of cattle and hidden the money. Desperados came to his hacienda and demanded money. Refusing to get it they beheaded him with machetes, beheaded his cattle together and drove them away. There are many in America like this."

"We lived where eleven American families had founded the town of Sanburn. All eleven families left because we were afraid to remain longer, knowing we would all be killed or tortured."

Sanburn is in the state of Vera Cruz, 15 miles north of Santa Rita. It is on the Vera Cruz and Indian railway.

John T. McGee, a wealthy planter, who went to Mexico two years ago, told of almost countless practices on an American woman, who is now in a hospital at Mexico City.

"The bandits visited the home of Mr. Shay, one of my neighbors, about a week before I left the settlement, and Mr. McGee said and demanded money and guns. Being refused, they took Mrs. Shay, tied her down and began beating her feet. Mr. Shay and his son, to stop the torture, gave four guns and $800 to the desperados, who left the place. At the hospital in Mexico City it was found that nearly every bone in Mrs. Shay's feet had been broken."

"What is true of the Shay family has been true of scores of other Americans. The bandits are everywhere. 'Many Americans believe the Mexican military forces so dislike the Americans that they would rather permit the brigandage than try to stop it. Therefore families are near the border districts, but there is rarely a shot fired.'"

San Antonio, Tex., April 25.—One hundred engineers and conductors, formerly employees of the National lines of Mexico, called at Fort Sam Houston Tuesday and offered their services to the United States government should it be necessary to send troops into Mexico. They told of cruelties to men, women, children, and robbery perpetrated by bands of guerrillas. They also told of hatred in Mexico for all Americans and said the American flag was hoisted in Mexico City. In other parts of the republic they had seen the same flag pulled off its staff, torn to pieces and trampled in the dust.

The Second district had been carried for Roosevelt, thus giving him eight of the twenty votes from Kansas.

It is believed that this includes 80 per cent of the vote of the state.

WORTHLESS READING. "Worthless reading makes worthless people." Put that in big letters and hang it up in your sitting-room, where you can see it every day, and where the young people can see it. Maybe it will call their attention to the books they are reading, which are uplifting or degrading, says the Ohio State Journal. They are one or the other. Parents don't seem to realize this. Nine out of ten of them do not seem to understand the significance of a book. An education amounts to nothing if a boy or girl turns it into shallow reading. Their minds are filled with trash and their thinking is weak, when they read the kind of books that are mostly read these days. It is a sad mistake to allow this material to go at random, and to allow the youth's taste for reading to grow rank and wild. The highest triumph of an education is the desire and habit to read good books. It makes no difference how well a boy reads if he has no mathematics or language. If he has no taste for good reading it is all waste. Parents will take great interest in the marks their child gets at school, but they are hopelessly careless as to what those marks mean for him in his after life. It is time they were giving attention to this subject.

For at least four hundred years journalism has been a profession without academic recognition. In that a course of study was required to enter its portals. The late Joseph Pulitzer felt that it should be raised to the proper rank, and he founded and endowed a college, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. To the headship of this new institution is called Dr. Talbot Williams of this city, one of the names of American journalism, and one whose experience, travel, accomplishments and scholarship make the selection wholly admirable. Journalism is not wholly taught. It receives more recruits than almost any other profession, and most of the postulants fall by the wayside. It is a trying-out process which results in successes in many directions other than newspaper work. To fit into the peculiar niche which makes journalism so important is given to few, but it is certain that no young man ever entered journalism and left it without carrying away valuable lessons.

The cheque has never flourished in England theaters, but is a powerful institution in France, where a "chef de clique" enjoys a recognized status and makes a comfortable income. It is a mistake to suppose that the only duty of cheques is to applaud. A well organized cheque includes some members who have cultivated the art of infectious laughter. These "chauffeurs" attend the lighter forms of drama and laugh so heartily and naturally that their neighbors join in, and leave the house, convinced that the play must be a funny one. Then there are the "pleureuses," who are paid to shake with sobs at the right moment during melodramas. These are the real dramatic critics.

A scientific assertion is produced to the effect that there are no germs in the telephone mouthpiece. These receptacles of language must be sterilized by the heat of the messages poured into them by some unfortunate who has waited 15 minutes to get the curt information that "the line's busy."

MOORS IN MUTINY SHIPS CRASH IN FOG

KILL FRENCH OFFICERS AND CITIZENS IN MOROCCAN CITY OF FEZ.

Two Deckhands Killed and 170 Other Persons Are Put in Peril by Accident.

Galveston, Tex., April 23.—Hidden from each other in a dense fog from each other in the harbor, the steamship Denver of the Matson line and the El Sud of the Southern Pacific Steamship company were in collision about fifteen miles from the Galveston light at the entrance to Galveston Harbor. For a time it was feared that the El Sud, which is a freight steamer, would sink.

Two lives were lost, those of deck hands who were knocked overboard, and one negro deck hand of the El Sud was badly hurt.

The crash occurred about fifteen miles from the Galveston light. For a time it was feared the El Sud would sink. Down at the bow, El Sud raced for the shore and was beached on Galveston bar. She was saved from sinking by her forward bulkhead having withstood the thrust of the sea as the two ships collided.

There were about 100 passengers on the Denver and a crew of 70. There was a wild rush for life preservers and the lifeboats of the Denver after the crash, but Capt. Charles P. Staples and First Officer Lamb succeeded in quieting the excited men.

MURDER AMERICANS

MEXICANS ASSASSINATE AND TORTURE MEN AND WOMEN FROM UNITED STATES.

AWFUL STORIES BY STEAMER

Refugees From Vera Cruz Arriving at Galveston Say They Were Forced to Leave Lands, Homes, Furniture, and All Else.

Galveston, Tex., April 23.—The steamer Texas arrived here Tuesday morning with 400 refugees from Vera Cruz, all but one citizens of the United States. They told of torture and assassination of Americans in Mexico. All the refugees had left their lands and homes in a flight for life.

H. H. Ish, one of the refugees, told of the murder of an American citizen named Watt.

"Mr. Watt was a neighbor to me," said Mr. Ish. "He had sold several head of cattle and hidden the money. Desperados came to his hacienda and demanded money. Failing to get it they beheaded him with machetes, herded his cattle together and drove them away. There are many instances like this.

"We lived where eleven American families had founded the town of Sanburn. All eleven families left because we were afraid to remain longer, knowing we would all be killed or tortured."

Sanburn is in the state of Vera Cruz, 13 miles north of Santa Lucrécia. It is on the Vera Cruz and Isthmus railway.

John T. McGee, a wealthy planter, who went to Mexico two years ago, told of alleged cruelties practiced on an American citizen, who is now in a hospital at Mexico City.

"The bandits visited the home of Mr. Shay, one of my neighbors, about a week before I left the settlement," said Mr. McGee. "and demanded money and guns. Being refused, they took Mrs. Shay, and her two sons and her son, to stop the torture, gave four guns and $800 to the desperados, who left the place. At the hospital in Mexico City it was found that nearly every bone in Mrs. Shay's feet had been broken."

"What is true of the Shay family has been true of scores of other Americans. The bandits are everywhere."

"Many Americans believe the Mexican military forces so dislike the Americans that they would rather permit the brigandage than try to stop it. Whenever rural and near the border, they disperse, but there is rarely a shot fired."

San Antonio, Tex., April 23.—One hundred engineers and conductors, formerly employees of the National lines of Mexico, called at Fort Sam Houston Tuesday and asked for services to the United States government. They should it be necessary to send troops into Mexico. They told of cruelty to men, insults to women, pillage and robbery perpetrated by bands of guerrillas. They also told of hatred in Mexico for all Americans and said the American flag was hissed in Mexico City. They said the republic they had seen the same flag pulled off its staff, torn to pieces and trampled in the dust.

Concerning Free Sugar.

It would be interesting to know just where we are at regarding the sugar industry in the United States. We are told that with the duty removed from sugar that it would make that commodity two cents a pound cheaper to the consumer, and as the sugar used in the United States each year amounts to a whole lot of money, it would mean an enormous saving to the people in general.

Then somebody comes out and says that putting sugar on the free list would entirely destroy the beet sugar industry, which at the present time has reached quite large proportions in the country, and would mean a great loss not only to farmers, but also those who have invested their money in beet sugar plants.

We do not know which claimant is right, or whether either of them are. In fact we suspect that both sides are lying to a certain extent. We do not believe that the placing of sugar on the free list will make a difference of two cents a pound, neither do we believe that it would entirely destroy the beet sugar industry.

However, we will say this much: Even if it did make a difference of two cents a pound in the retail price of sugar, the loss to the farmers and others engaged in the beet sugar business would be more than made up by the saving to the public in general. And it might be the means of raising the quality of sugar somewhat.

Beet sugar isn't anything to brag about at best, and why the general public should be robbed to the extent of a cent or two a pound for the purpose of fostering an industry that at best produces only a poor substitute for the old original article, is more than we can understand.

We say, let the beet sugar men go out of business, if they must, and put the land used in raising beets to a better use, and get our sugar at the lowest possible price. Everybody will be benefited in the end.

California Is Exposed.

By Willie Graham.

If there's one ancient fraud that ought to be exposed, it's the glory of California. The whole Pacific coast is a swindle, but California press agent dope is a crime against civilization.

Do they ever tell you about the flies out there? Do they ever tell you about the seemingly endless rains? Do the Fox O'Grady boomers (with real estate to sell) ever boom that city's two degrees at 2 o'clock in the morning? Do they ever write verses in a dust that lies a foot thick on the streets and penetrates everywhere? Do they seek to lure you with tales of thousands of men looking for one lone job? And of the "native sons" who claim that the earth and the fullness thereof was created only for them?

Do they ever tell you of the monotonous climate that makes you long for a blizzard? Do they ever tell you of the cold days that do come when you sit snugly in a house that hasn't so much as a coal stove in it? Do they ever tell you (what's a fact) that you can get better California fruit in Milwaukee than you can in San Francisco?

No, they don't, for the truth is not in them. Therefore, hearken to me. And if you're figuring on selling your good Wisconsin honey, and your good Wisconsin cheese, and your good Wisconsin butter, think twice—and then forget it.—Milwaukee Journal.

Wisconsin As a Dairy State.

Wisconsin today leads all other states in its number of cows, which are 1,200,000. New York comes next with 1,095,000; Iowa follows with 1,393,000; Minnesota has 1,107,000 and Illinois has 1,049,000. Wisconsin also leads in the number of cheese factories, creameries, and buttereries, and its annual cheese production is the greatest of any state in the union.

This has been done on about one-half of the area of the state. The northern half, which is one of the most natural dairy sections in earth, is yet very largely a cut over forest. However, these northern Wisconsin lands are rapidly being taken up and cleared with modern methods. It does not take half the time, labor or expense to clear and prepare the land for the plow that it formerly did. Then, besides, all land intended for pasture may be left with the stumps untouched. The blue grass and red clover come in as by magic and in two years after the sun is let in there is an abundant show of grass. No such clover and timothy was ever known in the Eastern States. These northern Wisconsin lands are divided into hardwood ridges with clay and clay loam soils and lands that are sandy or sandy loam.

If a purchaser is careful to get a hardwood farm, he has, with good management, a chance to find a nice farm under him in a few years. Information on this subject may be had by addressing the Wisconsin Advancement Association, Milwaukee, Wis.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Serradella.

It has just been learned that a Milwaukee company, interested in encouraging the owners of light sandy soils and jack pine lands to bring such lands up to a high state of fertility, has imported from Germany a limited quantity of Serradella seed. Serradella, a member of the clover family, is a foreign plant and is well known in Europe.

The chief points of value in this new forage, mowing and green manuring crop are that it can be broadcasted over a field of winter rye or wheat after the rye or wheat comes up this spring; it will stimulate the growth of the grain crop; after the grain is harvested, the Serradella makes a quick heavy growth of forage which can be pastured as late as desired; it remains green all winter, even under the snow; it can then be plowed under either in the fall or in the spring, and in this way adds great quantities of humus and nitrogen to the soil.

Serradella, unlike common clovers, can be safely fed to milk cows for it does not bleed them as the other clovers do.

If one has a field of winter rye or wheat coming on this spring, he can plant spring grain, and after it is up an inch and a half or two inches, he can broadcast the Serradella over it as mentioned above. In this way, the farmer gets the same fertilizing value he would get by planting clover, with the added advantage of doing it in one year with a money-crop to come off when he harvests the grain. With common clovers he has to wait two years to get a stand and even then is not absolutely sure. Serradella is an annual plant and can be sown every year with a grain crop, this giving the grower a cash grain crop and a valuable forage crop off the same ground every year, as well as putting quantities of humus and nitrogen into his soil as plant food for any other crops he may want to plant in following years.

This makes a one year rotation system possible.

The company above referred to, the German-American "Nitrogen" Company, Milwaukee, Wis., imported only a limited quantity of this seed which, though not in the seed business, is offered to a few farmers in this state in the hope of getting them to experiment with it, and discover its value in bringing up light sandy soils and in improving so called "worn out" soils. We understand they are disposing of what they have left very rapidly now as the seeding season is so close at hand, and if any in this locality wish to try this valuable new plant, they should communicate with the Company without delay, for the small quantity hand will soon be gone.

Kansas Being Milked.

Since in Kansas, 1901. Tax burdens accumulating, insupportable. Note this from the Topeka State Journal: "Everybody in the commonwealth knows how its expenses have been piling up and piling up during the last few years, or since the republican insurgents have been calling the ship of state. It is out of the question to create state boards and commissions to investigate this and regulate that without spending big bundles of money to keep them in working order. And the question arises: Of what does it profit a taxpayer to have the railroads and this and that utility and business activity regulated in such a way that he will have in the course of a year a dollar or two in the aggregate on railroad fares and another dollar or two in some other direction, if his tax rate is increased two and three hundred per cent, and he has to pay out more in his increased taxes than he has saved by the activities of state officials in regulating the railroads and other Governmental activity that works out in this fashion may be something of a boon to the people who don't pay taxes, and, of course, it may be possible that the taxpayers have no rights in the premises anyhow. This much is certain, though the politicians who run around about how they are saving the people money by regulating this and that quasi public utility, and the towns, are exceedingly careful to cover up the fact that such savings are likely to be more than eaten up in increased taxes. That undoubtedly is the case in Wisconsin. And things seem to be going in that direction here in Kansas."

Just now the newspapers of the country are abuzz with articles about capitalists and others who are interested in navigating the ocean, as to how they should sail their boats and how fast to run them, notwithstanding the fact that most of the articles are written by persons who never saw the ocean at all and have no conception of the existing conditions, and the majority of them, could not navigate a rowboat. We say: Give us a rest, brethren. You may be able to tell the farmers how to raise pork and potatoes, give a d y i e on the best method of weaning calves, and instruct merchants on how to make a success of their business, but for a man who couldn't tell the difference between a sextant and the binocular light to be giving advice as to what course to follow in crossing the ocean, is a waste of space that might better be devoted to something else.

At a dinner party given lately in Paris one lady was remarked above all others for the elegance of her figure and the perfection of her toilet. During the meal the quart d'heure before dinner she was surrounded by a host of admirers, and one less bashful than the rest ventured to offer her the flower from his buttonhole. It was accepted, but as the "princess robe" worn by the graceful creature was laced behind it was necessary to fasten the flower to the front of her dress with a pin. The operation was successfully performed, and the fair lady was led to dinner by the donor of the flower. They were hardly seated when he heard a curious sound like the gentle sighing of the wind, and on turning toward his partner he saw with horror that the lovely figure was getting "small by degrees and beautifully less." The rounded form had disappeared before the soup was over, and long before the first entree the once creatureless garment hung in great folds about a scraggy framework! It seems that the newest dresses for "slim" ladies are made with air tight linings and inflated until the required degree of embonpoint is attained. The unfortunate lady mentioned above had forgotten this detail when she fastened the fatal flower to her bosom with a pin; hence the collapse.

Why Not Try It?

The most effective and practicable method of clearing a dandelion infested lawn, other than by hand digging, is by the use of iron sulphate applied as a spray. The writer has succeeded with three applications in entirely killing all plants of this common lawn pest without injuring the grass. A portion of a lawn so badly infested that hardly anything but dandelions was visible a year ago is now without a single plant and the grass has thickened a good deal in consequence.

A solution of copperas or iron sulphate made by dissolving a gallon of 1 1/2 pounds of the salt in a gallon of water should be applied to the lawn with a spray pump, so as to wet every plant. It will not do to use a common sprinkler. The solution must be put on in the form of a fine spray applied with some force to be most effective. A common bucket, spray pump, or even a hand atomizer, for very small areas, is suitable, providing it makes a fine, forcible spray. Do not try to hit the dandelions only but cover every square inch of the lawn, in this way all seedling plants will be killed. Put on a second application in two to three weeks and a third and possibly a fourth late in summer if any of the dandelions start into growth. The grass will be blackened for a short time but soon recovers and after a watering and mowing will appear darker green than before. B. O. Longyear, in The Northwestern Agriculturist.

WOMEN AND HEALTH.

Women are beginning to realize more fully that good health is not to be found in the use of cosmetics and face powders. The appearance of health may follow facial treatment, but health itself lies much deeper than the surface.

Most important to the health of every woman is regularity of the bowels and digestive organs. The weary eyes, bad breath, frequent headaches, pimples and general air of lassitude, is in most every case due to constipation or indigestion, or both. There are various remedies prescribed for this condition, but the easiest, most pleasant and certainly effective, is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin known to druggists as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This simple remedy is far preferable to harsh salts and cathartics that disturb the whole system without affording more than a temporary relief.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a tonic laxative, mild in its action, pleasant to the taste and positive in its effect, strengthening the muscles of stomach and bowels so that after a short time these organs regain the power to perform their natural functions without assistance.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists everywhere in 50c and $1.00 bottles. If you have never tried it, write for a sample to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.; he will gladly send a trial bottle without any expense to you whatever.

A girl can be sentimental even about the way she eats pickles.

Good health cannot be maintained where there is a constipated habit. Gardell Tea overcomes constipation.

Literary.

"This dentist calls his office a dental parlor."

"Well, isn't it a drawing room?"

Cole's carelessness in looking and turning his head. It instantly stops the pain of burns. Burns, scalds, cuts, and scratches. Write for sample today to J. W. Cole & Co., 1140 Broadway, N. Y. C.

"Who was that man I had for a partner at bridge last evening?"

"He's a writer of farces."

"I might have known it."

"Why?"

"He made some mighty funny plays."

Logical Millinery.

"People say there is no reason, no logic, in millinery. What a falsehood."

The speaker was George Ade. He continued (the occasion was an after-theater supper in Chicago):

"Hats, whether Easter or otherwise, are full of logic, full of reason. A hat is the last thing a woman can do."

"What's a woman's last duty?"

"That father logically and reasonably replied:

"A widow's last duty, my son, is, of course, one without a nap."

Necrotic Kiss Husband.

Supreme Court Justice Marcus in Brooklyn, dismissed the suit of Samuel Markowitz, a New York real estate broker, for the annulment of his marriage to Mildred Markowitz.

"It is absurd to frame such issues," Justice Marcus said. "Practically the plaintiff asks an annulment of his marriage to the girl because she refused to kiss him."

"The young woman was eighteen years old when she married Markowitz, who, as alleged, had already had four wives, of whom two had died and two were divorced."

Birds Are Early Risers.

He was an affable young man and desirous of demonstrating his kindly and genial disposition. So when the canary bird chirped merrily from its cage on the wall he spoke up cheerily:

"What's the matter, bird?" he inquired.

The girl glanced at him with a dreamy smile. She was a southern girl, and she spoke with a gentle drawl.

"He thinks it's mawntin," she cooed. The man who loves birds hasn't been back."

Bad Teeth Go With Good Brains.

An English scientist has pointed out that there are signs of a steady degeneracy in two sets of organs vital to the well-being of the human race, and the fall is most marked among the western nations. The evidence is that, coincident with the mental advance of man, there has been a diminution in the provision of teeth. In the ape, the negro, and the white man, brain and teeth are inversely proportional to efficiency. Increase of cunning has reduced the work of the teeth, and the demand of the brain for food has starved the former disorders of digestion show that the balance is unsatisfactory.

THANKSGIVING PSALM.

A Rhythmic and Grateful Chant.

A teacher in a Terre Haute public school joins in the business, which requires a great deal of brain and nerve force. Unless this force is renewed as fast as expended the teacher is exhausted before the close of the year. Many resort to stimulating tonics for relief.

"For 3 years I struggled against almost complete exhaustion, getting what relief I could from doctors' tonics. Then in the spring of 1908, I had an attack of grippe and malaria which left me too weak to continue my work. Medicine failed to give me any relief, a change of climate failed. I thought I should never be able to go back to school again."

"I ate enough food (the ordinary meats—white bread, vegetables, etc.), but was hungry after meals."

"I happened at this time to read an article giving the experience of another teacher who had been helped by Grape-Nuts food. I decided to try Grape-Nuts and cream, as an experiment. It was a delightful experience, and continues so after a year and a half of constant use."

"First, I noticed that I was not hungry after meals."

"In a few days that tired feeling left me, and I felt fresh and bright, instead of dull and sleepy, than my usual state during school."

"In three months more than my usual strength returned, and I had gained 15 pounds in weight."

"I finished the year's work without any kind of tonic—was not absent from duty even half a day."

"Am still in best of health, with all who know me wondering at the improvement."

SYNOPSIS.

Klan Harnish, known all through Alaska as "Burning Daylight," celebrates his 50th birthday with a crowd of miners at the Circle City. The dance lasts to midnight, and Harnish, who is a man of many talents, wins the girl of his choice, a young woman named Clara. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him.

Back in Dawson, though he remained true to his word and never touched a hand to pick and shovel, he worked as hard as ever in his life. He had a thousand men in the mine, and he kept them busy. He was a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him.

Dawson grew rapidly that winter of 1906. Money poured in on Daylight from the sale of town lots. He promptly invested it where it would gather more. In fact, he played the game of speculation, and in a piece of time he had a fortune. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him.

With the money he had made, he bought a house in the city. He was a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him.

He was a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him.

He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him.

And, gazing down on the smoky interior of the mine, Daylight outlined the new game he would play, a game in which the Guggenhamers and the rest would have to reckon with him. But along with the delight in the new conception came a weariness. He was tired of the long Arctic years, and he was tired of the long Arctic years, and he was tired of the long Arctic years.

He was a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. He is a man of many talents, and his friends are proud of him. NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Plant only good seeds.

Use the manure spreader.

There is no profit in dunging.

Cultivation conserves moisture.

The man who plants right starts right.

No lice or mites on incubator chicks to begin with.

Early hatched pullets are those that lay next winter.

There isn't much gained in trying to save a runt chick.

Mended the broken extra harness. Good time right now.

Sow alfalfa by itself; it doesn't need any nurse crop.

Let the chicks have sweet milk to drink and watch them grow.

Over-feeding and lack of exercise often cause pigs to have fits.

Have two or three plow points on hand ready for the time of need.

Poorly fed sheep will not produce very good wool, nor good mutton.

Sheep can be grown successfully in a climate where cowboys do well.

The young lamb will grow rapidly, so give him a chance. There is profit in it.

If it is cold weather when the young trees arrive, bill in until it moderates.

Strong chemical fertilizers should not be given too lavishly to growing plants.

Don't make the mistake of thinking that lice do not trouble poultry in cold weather.

Wise farmers are paying considerable attention to the quality of their seed corn.

Milk is the hog's natural food. Give him all of it you can spare up every day.

Before plan to have some rape next summer. As a feed for sheep it is hard to beat.

There is more risk than gain in breeding a heifer before she is eighteen months old.

Overchurning makes the butter "salty." Stop when the grains are the size of wheat kernels.

Cultivation does not add any water to the soil, but prevents that already there from getting away.

The hall from a candy bucket attached to the other end of the bucket gives you a handy milk stool.

Horses cannot be grown as cheap as they were when land was half the price and grain half the price.

A stumbling habit may be caused by poor shoeing; or it may be caused by ignorant or careless hitching.

Get the parsnips out of the ground at once. A few warm days will start growth and give them a strong flavor.

A chunk of salt where the cows can lick it any time is one way of making sure they are getting the right amount.

No use waiting for the potatoes to come up before working them. Harrow right along and after they are up, too.

It is a good plan to plant all the potatoes well and then a few more. We don't often raise too many potatoes.

A blockish-bull mare with a large barrel on short legs is likely to produce a better foal than the tall leggy kind.

The vicious hog that is forever breaking out and causing trouble for one's neighbor cannot be killed too quickly.

The difficulty of disposing of common grades of horses is as much in finding buyers for them as in getting respectable prices.

Mulching grapes is good in the drier sections, but once begun it must be kept up, as mulching brings the roots close to the surface.

If the grapes haven't been pruned yet it is probably too late to do it. Pruning after the sap starts causes the wounds to "bleed."

One of the main things to remember in selecting a location for a new orchard is to be sure that the site is or can be well drained.

No matter how highly bred, and carefully cultured a colt may be if it is not carefully trained and properly developed it loses its value.

It makes some horses ugly to work them with harness that do not travel up with them. Match them to suit as well as to other things.

Horse bleeding requires more capital, is more profitable, if successful, and involves larger losses if not, than any other kind of stock breeding.

There is money in dairying in spite of a prevalent notion to the contrary, but it needs a combination of good cows and good management to get it out.

Ducks are frequently afflicted with rheumatism. It comes from roosting on damp ground. Give them a good dry-house with plenty of straw for bedding, and keep them in it at night.

Cement walks can be built around the barns and house with practically a small expense and the comfort which they provide for the men and women who make them one of the greatest conveniences on the farm.

Don't try to economize by buying seeds that are cheap. Get the best, and don't complain if the price seems high. It costs money to grow and save high-grade seeds, and it doesn't pay to buy any other.

A dry ground floor is better than a cold damp cement floor, but it must be remembered that the dogs will soon work the ground floor into a dust mulch, which is injurious to the lungs. Better have a good cement floor covered with boards and plenty of bedding.

Concerning Free Sugar.

It would be interesting to know just where we are at regarding the sugar industry in the United States. We are told that with the duty removed from sugar that it would make that commodity two cents a pound cheaper to the consumer, and as the sugar used in the United States each year amounts to a whole lot of money, it would mean an enormous saving to the people in general.

Then somebody comes out and says that putting sugar on the free list would entirely destroy the beet sugar industry, which at the present time has reached quite large proportions in the country, and would mean a great loss not only to farmers, but also those who have invested their money in beet sugar plants.

We do not know which claimant is right, or whether either of them are. In fact we suspect that both sides are lying to a certain extent. We do not believe that the placing of sugar on the free list will make a difference of two cents a pound, neither do we believe that it would entirely destroy the beet sugar industry.

However, we will say this much: That if it did make a difference of even one cent, the loss to the farmers and others engaged in the beet sugar business would be more than made up by the saving to the public in general. And it might be the means of raising the quality of sugar somewhat.

Beet sugar isn't anything to brag about at best, and why the general public should be robbed to the extent of a cent or two a pound for the purpose of fostering an industry that at best produces only a poor substitute for the old original article, is more than we can understand.

We say, let the beet sugar men go out of business, if they want, and put the land used in raising beets to a better use, and get our sugar at the lowest possible price. Everybody will be benefited in the end.

California Is Exposed.

By Willie Groch.

It there's one ancient fraud that ought to be exposed, it's the glory of California. The whole Pacific coast is a swindle, but California's agent does a crime against civilization.

Do they ever tell you about the flies and the heat? Do they ever tell you about the seemingly endless roads? Do they ever tell you about the Los Angeles business (with real estate to sell over here that city's 100 degrees at 2 o'clock in the morning)? Do they ever tell you about the dust that flies a foot thick on the streets and penetrates everywhere?

Do they ever tell you with tales of thousands of men looking for one true job? And of the "native sons" who think that the earth and the richness thereof was created only for them?

Do they ever tell you of the monstrous climate that took you long for a blizzard? Do they tell you of the cold days that do come when you sit and shiver in a house that isn't so hot as a coal stove in it? Do they ever tell you (what a fact) that you can get better California fruit in Milwaukee than you can in San Francisco?

No, they don't, for the truth is not in there. Therefore, hearken to me. And if you're figuring on selling your good Wisconsin homestead and moving to California, think twice—and then forget it. Milwaukee Journal.

Wisconsin As a Dairy State.

Wisconsin today leads all other states in its number of cows, which are 1,040,000. New York comes next with 1,005,000; Iowa follows with 1,003,000; Minnesota has 1,007,000 and Illinois has 1,010,000. Wisconsin also leads in the number of these factories and creameries, over 1,000, and its annual cheese production is the greatest of any state in the union.

This has been done on about one-half of the area of the state. The northern half, which is one of the most natural dairy sections on earth, is yet very largely a cut over forest. The southern half, where Wisconsin dairies are rapidly being taken up and cleared with modern methods. It does not take half the time, labor or expense to clear and prepare the land for the plow that it formerly did. Then, besides, all land intended for pasture may be left with the stumps untouched. The blue grass and red clover come in as by magic and in two years after the sun is set in there is an abundant show of grass. No such clever and timothy was ever known in the Eastern States. These northern Wisconsin dairies are divided into hard-wood ridges with clay and clay loam soils and lands that are sandy or sandy loam.

If a purchaser is careful to get a hardwood farm, he has, with good management, a chance to find a nice farm under him in a few years. Information on this subject may be had by addressing the Wisconsin Advancement Association, Milwaukee, Wis.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Serradella.

It has just been learned that a Milwaukee company, interested in encouraging the owners of light sandy soils and jack pine lands to bring such lands up to a high state of fertility, has imported from Germany a limited quantity of Serradella seeds. Serradella, a member of the clover family, is a forage plant and is well known in Europe.

The chief points of value in this new forage, sodding and green manuring crop are: that it can be broadcasted over a field of winter rye or wheat, after the rye or wheat comes up this spring; it will stimulate the growth of the grain crop after the grain is harvested; the Serradella makes a quick heavy growth of forage which can be pastured as late as desired; it remains green all winter, even under the snow; it can then be plowed under either in the fall or in the spring, and in this way adds great quantities of humus and nitrogen to the soil.

Serradella, unlike common clovers, can be safely fed to milk cows for it does not libel them as the other clovers do.

If one hasn't a field of winter rye or wheat coming in this spring, he can plant spring grain, and after it is up an inch and a half or two inches, he can broadcast the Serradella over it as mentioned above.

In this way, the farmer gets the same fertilizing value he would get by planting clover, with the added advantage of doing it in one year with a money crop to come off when he harvests the grain.

With common clovers he has to wait two years to get a stand and even then it is not absolutely sure. Serradella is an annual plant and can be sown every year with a grain crop, thus giving the grower a cash grain crop and a valuable forage crop all the same ground every year, as well as putting quantities of humus and nitrogen into his soil as plant food for any other crop he may want to plant in following years.

This makes a one year rotation system possible.

The company above referred to, the German-American Nitrogen Company, Milwaukee, Wis., imported only a small quantity of this seed which, though not in the seed business, is offered for sale at the state fair in the hope of getting them to experiment with it, and discover its value in bringing up light sandy soils and in improving so-called "worn out" soils.

We understand that they are disposing of what they have left very rapidly, now as the seeding season is so close at hand, and if any in this locality wish to try this valuable new plant, they should communicate with the company without delay, for the small quantity of seed will soon be gone.

Kansas Being Milked.

Some in Kansas, too! Tax burdens accumulating, insurance hoarding.

Now this from the Topeka State Journal: "Everybody in the commonwealth knows how the expenses have been piling up and piling up during the last few years, or since the republican insurgents have been selling the ship of state. It is out of the question to grout state bonds and commissions to investigate this and regulate that without spending big bundles of money to keep them in working order. And the question arises: Of what does it profit a taxpayer to have the railroads and thus pay for that utility and business activity regulated in such a way that he will have in the course of a year a dollar or two in the aggregate on railroad fares and another dollar or two in some other direction, if his tax rate is increased two and three hundred per cent, and he has to pay out more in his increased taxes than he has saved by the activities of state officials in reducing railroad and other rates? (Governmental activity that works out in this fashion may be something of a boon to the people who don't pay taxes, and, of course, it may be possible that the taxpayers have an right in the promises anyhow. This much is certain, though the politicians who ran around about how they are saving the people money by regulating this and that quasi public utility, and the trusts, are exceedingly careful to cover up the fact that such savings are likely to be more than eaten up in increased taxes. That undoubtedly is the case in Wisconsin. And things seem to be going in that direction here in Kansas."

VESPER

(From the State Center.)

Mr. and Mrs. T. Lomley have moved back to Grand Rapids and are building a house in Wickham's addition. We were sorry to see Mr. and Mrs. Lomley move away from Vesper, but there was no work in his line to justify his staying.

Last Sunday afternoon at about two o'clock, during the electrical storm, lightning struck the farm residence of Fred Dues. In the town of Hanson, comparatively little damage.

A miniature twister of a cyclone nature dropped down Tuesday afternoon about five miles north of town and blew down some trees, a silo and moved some buildings. The scene was small.

It tells how the raw materials are taken from the quarry; how they are weighed, proportioned, crushed and conveyed to the mill; it describes the "Chicago AA" process of drying, grinding and then burning the raw mixture to a "clinker" and explains in an interesting way, the method of cooling the "clinker" and grinding and re-grinding it, thus producing "Chicago AA" Portland Cement—the best that can be made.

The chief points of value in this new forage, sowing and green manuring crop are that it can be broadcasted in the field of winter rye or wheat, after the rye or wheat comes up this spring; it will stimulate the growth of the grain crop; after the grain is harvested, the Serradella grain is harvested, the Serradella makes a quick growth of forage which can be pastured as late as desired; it remains green all winter, even under the snow; it can then be plowed under either in the fall or in the spring, and in this way adds great quantities of humus and nitrogen to the soil.

Serradella, unlike common clovers, can be safely fed to milch cows for it does not bloat them as the other clovers do.

If one has a field of winter rye or wheat coming up this spring, he can plant spring grain, and after it is up an inch and a half or two inches, he can broadcast the Serradella over it as mentioned above. In this way the farmer gets the same fertilizing value from the seed as from the clover, with the added advantage of doing it in one year with a money-crop to come off when he harvests the grain.

With common clovers he has to wait two years to get a stand and even then is not absolutely sure. Serradella is an annual plant and can be sown every year with a cash grain crop and a valuable forage crop off the same ground every year, as well as putting quantities of humus and nitrogen into his soil as a plant food for any other crops he may want to plant in following years.

This makes a one year rotation system possible.

The company above referred to, the German-American "Nitragin" Company, Milwaukee, Wis., imported only a small quantity of this seed which is offered to a few farmers in this state in the hope of getting them to experiment with it, and discover the value of bringing up light sandy soils and in bringing up light "worn out" soils.

We understand they are disposing of what they have left very rapidly now as the seeding season is so close at hand, and if any of the locality wish to try this valuable new plant, they should communicate with the Company without delay, for the small quantity now on hand will soon be gone.

Kansas Being Milked.
Same in Kansas, too!
Tax burdens accumulating, insurance booming.
Note this from the Topeka State Journal: "Everybody in the commonwealth knows how its expenses have been piling up and piling up during the last few years, or since the republican insurgents have been sailing the ship of state. It is out of the question to create state boards and commissions to investigate this or that, without spending big bundles of money to keep them in working order. And the question arises: Of what does it profit a taxpayer to have the railroads and that utility and business activity regulated in such a way that he will save in the course of a year a dollar or two in the aggregate on railroad fares and another dollar or two in some other direction, if his tax rate is increased two and three hundred per cent, and he has to pay out more in his increased taxes than he has in saved by the activities of state officials in reducing railroad and other rates? Governmental activity that works out in the fashion may be something of a boon to the people who don't pay taxes, and, of course, it may be possible that the taxpayers have no rights in the premises anyhow. This much is certain, though the politicians who run around about how they are saving the people money by regulating this and that quasi public utility, and the trusts, are exceedingly careful to cover up the fact that such savings are likely to be more than eaten up in increased taxes. That undoubtedly is the case in Wisconsin. And things seem to be going in that direction here in Kansas."

For Your Spring Work

Have you learned how "Chicago AA" Portland Cement is made? It is a story of great interest to the man who uses cement. It tells how the raw materials are taken from the quarry, how they are weighed, proportioned, crushed and conveyed to the mills; it describes the "Chicago AA" process of drying, grinding and then burning the raw mixture to a "clinker" and explains in an interesting way, the method of cooling the "clinker" and grinding and re-grinding it, thus producing "Chicago AA" Portland Cement—"the best that can be made."

Read this story:—
It will enable you to better appreciate the superiority of the "Double A" brand—it will guide you in the selection of a cement for your work in the future.

NEWS FROM NEARBY PLACES.

Marshfield Herald:—"Dad" Pelton, one of the oldest conductors in point of service on the Soo railroad, received notice this week, that he had been placed on the retired list, his retirement to take place as soon as another man to take his place could be found. Mr. Pelton, the past seven years, has been passenger conductor on what is known among railroad men as the "old man's run" between this city and Nekoosa, leaving here in the morning and returning in the evening. When the retirement was made whereby the train in question instead of stopping here continued on to Greenwood for the night, it brought many additional duties and was necessarily a long and tiresome run, especially for one of Mr. Pelton's age. The venerable conductor began railroading 50 years ago and for 30 years has been conductor on the Wisconsin Central, now the Soo. He came to Marshfield seven years ago. For the present, and no doubt for the balance of his remaining days, the company for whom he had been a most faithful employee, will pay him a monthly salary of from $35 to $40 a month. While his cheerful presence will be missed by the traveling public he will ever be remembered as a grand old man, respected and liked by all who knew him. He will continue to make Marshfield his home.

Stevens Point Journal:—On May first a steel gang of 70 men will be put at work on the Soo line between this city and Marshfield, replacing the 80 pound steel rails on the main line with new 85 pound ones. A complete equipment of boarding cars will be put in service to take care of the men. The line between this city and Marshfield is one of the heaviest traveled sections of the entire Wisconsin Central system, and for this reason it has been deemed advisable to put in the new steel. The old rails will be shipped to the Manitowish branch and will be put in to replace the 60 and 70 pound rails now in use there. As the replacing of the rails must be done without interfering with the running of the train, it is expected that it will take at least two months to complete the work between here and Marshfield.

Marshfield News:—The famous violinist, Jacob Reuter, together with the Throes All Star Concert company of which he is the director, will give a concert in Marshfield next week Thursday evening, May 2, at the New Adler opera house. This announcement should interest every lover of music in town. Being under local auspices, it is practically guaranteed that this will be the musical event of the year in this city. Jacob Reuter is a close by himself. Though eccentric like many other great violinists, his peculiarities vanish when he stands before an audience with his violin and makes the music for which he is justly famous all over the country and in many of the European capitals.

Lynch of Grand Rapids, former superintendent of schools and one of the oldest members of the board in point of service, is strongly supported for chairman and will probably be chosen without opposition. Mr. Lynch is universally popular and would make an excellent presiding officer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whittlesey of Fargo, N. D., arrived in the city the fore part of the week and Mrs. Whittlesey is visiting her people here, while Mr. Whittlesey is transacting some business in Chicago.

Mr. Whittlesey expects to be here again the latter part of the week. On Tuesday afternoon the Tribune office received a call from Archie McMillan, who has been confined to his home since last summer with a series of abscesses on his hip, a recurrence of an old ailment that crippled him early in life. Mr. McMillan is not well, by any means, but has to be wheeled around in a chair, but this is better than using crutches to the house steadily, as has been the case for about nine months past. We hope to see Mr. McMillan coming down town without any assistance before a great while.

Private advice received from Mrs. Ador Clairmont, (nee Arville Domarais) are to the effect that she is suffering from tuberculosis, and has been in the west for some time past in the attempt to secure relief from her trouble.

The high water of last fall and this spring has damaged the parking on the west bank of the river to a considerable extent by washing out the sod in various places. These places can be repaired but there will doubtless be more or less trouble from washouts whenever there is a rise in the water. While nothing appears so nice as a sloping lawn to the water's edge, still it might be a great deal cheaper in the long run to construct a low wall along the river bank and thus protect the grass from the slight fluctuations that occur in the height of the river.

Estimates Promptly Furnished

It's natural for you to want the most and the best you can get for your money. But when you buy a bill of lumber without getting an estimate from us, how do you know that you're getting the best bargain that is possible for you to get?

You simply can't tell a thing about it. You don't know whether you're losing money or not.

The only safe way is to always let us make you an estimate on what you want, before buying elsewhere. We have complete stocks of everything in lumber and building material.

At a dinner party given lately in Paris one lady was remarked above all others for the elegance of her figure and the perfection of her toilet. During the meal's quart d'honneur before dinner she was surrounded by a host of admirers, and one less bashful than the rest ventured to offer her the flower from his buttonhole. It was accepted, but as the "princess robe" worn by the graceful creature was loosed behind it was necessary to fasten the flower to the front of her dress with a pin. The operation was successfully performed, and the fair lady was led in to dinner by the donor of the flower. They were hardly seated when he heard a curious sound like the gentle sighing of the wind, and on turning toward his partner he saw with horror that the lovely figure was getting "small by degrees and beautifully less." The rounded form had disappeared before the soup was over, and long before the first entree the once once-less garment hung in great folds about a scraggy framework! It seems that the newest dresses for "slight" ladies are made with air tight linings and inflated until the required degree of embonpoint is attained. The unfortunate lady mentioned above had forgotten this detail when she fastened the fatal flower to her bosom with a pin; hence the collapse.

Why Not Try It?
The most effective and practicable method of clearing a dandelion infested lawn, other than by hand digging, is by the use of iron sulphate applied as a spray. The writer has succeeded with three applications in entirely killing all plants of this common lawn pest without injuring the grass. A portion of a lawn so badly infested that hardly anything but dandelions was visible a year ago is now without a single plant and the grass has thickened a good deal in consequence.

A solution of copperas or iron sulphate made by dissolving at the rate of 1 1/2 pounds of the salt in a gallon of water should be applied to the lawn with a spray pump so as to wet every plant. It will not do to use a common sprinkler. The solution must be put on in the form of a fine spray applied with some force to be most effective. A common bucket, spray pump, or even a hand atomizer, for very small areas, is suitable, providing it makes a fine, forcible spray. Do not try to hit the dandelions only but cover every square inch of the lawn, in this way all seedling plants will be killed. Put on a second application in two to three weeks and a third and possibly a fourth late in summer if any of the dandelions start into growth. The grass will be blackened for a short time but soon recovers and after a watering and mowing will appear darker green than before. B. O. Longyear, in The Northwestern Agriculturist.

Just now the newspapers of the country are chock full of advice to captains and others who are interested in navigating the ocean, as to how they should sail their boats and how to fasten their boats and how to fasten their boats.

The most effective and practicable method of clearing a dandelion infested lawn, other than by hand digging, is by the use of iron sulphate applied as a spray. The writer has succeeded with three applications in entirely killing all plants of this common lawn pest without injuring the grass. A portion of a lawn so badly infested that hardly anything but dandelions was visible a year ago is now without a single plant and the grass has thickened a good deal in consequence.

A solution of copperas or iron sulphate made by dissolving at the rate of 1 1/2 pounds of the salt in a gallon of water should be applied to the lawn with a spray pump, so as to wet every plant. It will not do to use a common sprinkler. The solution must be put on in the form of a fine spray applied with some force to be most effective. A common bucket, spray pump, or even a hand sprayer, for very small areas, is suitable, but for larger areas a fine nozzle sprayer is best. Do not try to hit the dandelions only but cover every square inch of the lawn. In this way all seedling plants will be killed. Put on a second application in two to three weeks, and a third and possibly a fourth late in summer if any of the dandelions start into growth. The grass will be blackened for a short time but soon recovers and after a watering and mowing will appear darker green than before. B. O. Longyear, in The Northwestern Agriculturalist.

Mrs. Mary Garvey of Duluth is suing for $10,000 damages for injuries claimed to have been sustained in the wreck of the Soo line's "Velvet Special," passenger train near Fremont last fall. It is understood that she was traveling on a pass and that the Soo road will fight the case on this ground. As is customary, the Soo line requires all pass holders to sign an agreement relieving the company from any responsibility for the safety of the passenger.

At a dinner party given lately in Paris one lady was remarked above all others for the elegance of her figure and the perfection of her toilet. During the mauvais quart d'heure before dinner she was surrounded by a host of admirers, and one less bashful than the rest ventured to offer her the flower from his boutonniere.

It was accepted, but as the "princess robe" worn by the graceful creature was laced behind it was necessary to fasten the flower to the front of her dress with a pin. The operation was successfully performed, and the fair lady was led in to dinner by the donor of the flower. They were hardly seated when he heard a curious sound like the gentle sighing of the wind, and on turning toward his partner he saw with horror that the lovely figure was getting "small by degrees and beautifully less."

The rounded form had disappeared before the soup was over, and long before the first entrée the once creaseless garment hung in great folds about a scraggy framework! It seems that the newest dresses for "slight" ladies are made with air tight linings and inflated until the required degree of embonpoint is attained. The unfortunate lady mentioned above had forgotten this detail when she fastened the fatal flower to her bosom with a pin; hence the collapse.

Why Not Try It?

NEWS FROM NEARBY PLACES.

Marshfield Herald:—"Dad" Pelton, one of the oldest conductors in point of service on the Soo railroad, received notice this week, that he had been placed on the retired list, his retirement to take place as soon as another man to take his place could be found. Mr. Pelton, the past seven years, has been passenger conductor on what is known among railroad men as the "old man's run" between this city and Nokoma, running here in the morning and returning in the evening. When this recent change was made whereby the train is continued on to Greenwood for the night, it brought many additional duties and was necessarily a long and tiresome run, especially for one of Mr. Pelton's age. The venerable conductor began railroading 20 years ago and for 30 years has been conductor on the Wisconsin Central, now the Soo. He came to Marshfield seven years ago. For the present, and no doubt for the balance of his remaining days, the company for whom he had been a most faithful employee, will pay him a monthly salary of from $25 to $40 a month. While his cheerful presence will be missed by the traveling public he will ever be remembered as a grand old man, respected and liked by all who know him. He will continue to make Marshfield his home.

Stevens Point Journal:—On May first a steel gang of 75 men will be put at work on the Soo line between this city and Marshfield, replacing the 80 pound steel rails on the main line with new 85 pound ones. A complete equipment of boarding cars will be put in service to take care of the men. The line between this city and Marshfield is one of the heaviest traveled sections of the entire Wisconsin Central system, and for this reason it has been deemed advisable to put in the new steel. The old rails will be shipped to the Manitowish branch and will be put in to replace the 60 and 70 pound rails now in use there. As the replacing of the rails must be done without interfering with the running of the trains, it is expected that it will take at least two months to complete the work between here and Marshfield.

Marshfield News:—The famous violinist, Jacob Roster, together with the Three All Star Quartet company of which he is the director, will give a concert in Marshfield next week Thursday evening, May 3, at the New Adler opera house. This announcement should interest every lover of music in town. Being under local auspices, it is practically guaranteed that this will be the most event of the year in this city. Jacob Roster is a class by himself. Though eccentric he has many other great violinists, his peculiarities vanish when he stands before an audience with his violin and makes the music for which he is justly famous all over the country and in many of the European capitals.

NEWS FROM NEARBY PLACES.

Marshfield Herald:—"Dad" Pelton, one of the oldest conductors in point of service on the Soo railroad, received notice this week, that he had been placed on the retired list, his retirement to take place as soon as another man to take his place could be found. Mr. Pelton, the past seven years, has been passenger conductor on what is known among railroad men as the "old man's run" between this city and Nokona, leaving here in the morning and returning in the evening. When the recent change was made whereby the train in question instead of stopping here continued on to Greenwood for the night, it brought many additional duties and was necessarily a long and tiresome run, especially for one of Mr. Pelton's age. The venerable conductor began railroading 30 years ago and for 30 years has been conductor on the Wisconsin Central, now the Soo. He came to Marshfield seven years ago. For the present, and no doubt for the balance of his remaining days, the company for whom he had been a most faithful employee will pay him a monthly salary of from $35 to $40 a month. While his cheerful presence will be missed by the traveling public he will ever be remembered as a grand old man, respected and liked by all who knew him. He will continue to make Marshfield his home.

Stevens Point Journal:—On May first a steel gang of 75 men will be put at work on the Soo line between this city and Marshfield, replacing the 80 pound steel rails on the main line with new 85 pound ones. A complete equipment of hoisting cars will be put in service to take care of the men. The line between this city and Marshfield is one of the heaviest traveled sections of the entire Wisconsin Central system, and for this reason it has been deemed advisable to put in the new steel. The old rails will be shipped to the Manitowish branch and will be put in to replace the 60 and 70 pound rails now in use there. As the replacing of the rails must be done without interfering with the running of the trains, it is expected that it will take at least two months to complete the work between here and Marshfield.

Marshfield News:—The famous violinist, Jacob Reuter, together with the Elton All Star Concert company of which he is the director, will give a concert in Marshfield next week Thursday evening, May 2, at the New Auditorium house. This announcement should interest every lover of music in town. Being under local auspices, it is practically guaranteed that this will be the unusual event of the year in this city. Jacob Reuter is in a class by himself. Though eccentric like many other great violinists, his peculiarities vanish when he stands before an audience with his violin and makes the music for which he is justly famous all over the country and in many of the European capitals.

You simply can't tell a thing about it. You don't know whether you're losing money or not. The only safe way is to always let us make you an estimate on what you want, before buying elsewhere. We have complete stocks of everything in lumber and building material.

On Tuesday afternoon the Tribune office received a call from Archie McMillan, who has been confined to his home since last summer with a series of abscesses on his hip, a result of an old ailment that crippled him early in life. Mr. McMillan is not well, by any means, but has to be wheeled around in a chair, but this is better than being confined to the house steadily, as has been the case for about nine months past. We hope to see Mr. McMillan coming down town without any assistance before a great while.

Private advice received from Mrs. Adair Clairmont, (nee Arvilla Damarala) are to the effect that she is suffering from tuberculosis, and has been in the west for some time past in the attempt to secure relief from her trouble.

The high water of last fall and this spring has damaged the parking on the west bank of the river to a considerable extent by washing out the soil in various places. Those places can be repaired but there will doubtless be more or less trouble from washouts whenever there is a rise in the water. While nothing appears so nice as a sloping lawn to the water's edge, still it might be a great deal cheaper in the long run to construct a low wall along the river bank and thus protect the grass from the slight fluctuations that occur in the height of the river.
